How you can stay connected to the Army War College

June 7, 2011 -- Just because you leave the Army War College it doesn't mean that you can't still stay connected and up-to-date on all the happenings, new studies and exercises done here. Below are a few easy ways that you can stay connected and engaged.

Army War College homepage

The first and greatest place to keep up on Army War College news and events is the USAWC homepage, located at www.carlisle.army.mil Updated regularly, the site showcases the latest USAWC news, conference, studies and other important events.

Facebook

One of the easiest ways to stay connected is to become a follower on Facebook. Simply go to www.facebook.com/usawc and you'll see the latest news and events. The best part is you don't even need an account to see the newest postings.

However if you'd like to have them delivered straight to you, log into your existing Facebook account and click "Like" on the top right corner of the USAWC page. After that, all of the latest postings from our page will appear directly on your News Feed.

YouTube

Another great way to stay connected is to hear lectures from guest speakers and conferences at the USAWC YouTube page at www.youtube.com/usarmywarcollege The best part is that you don't even have to register for an account to see the latest videos, just visit the page to see the newest videos, all sorted by event.

Parameters

Want to read the newest articles on the art and science of land warfare, joint and combined matters, national and international security affairs, military strategy, military leadership and management, military history, ethics, and other topics written by USAWC experts? Then sign up for a free “e-subscription” to Parameters and you’ll be notified by e-mail when a new issue of Parameters is made available online. Simply send an email to CARL_Parameters@conus.army.mil and put the word “subscribe” in the subject line.

Strategic Studies Institute

Go beyond the headlines and be well versed on the latest national security and geopolitical issues. All Strategic Studies Institute (SSI) publications, events, and updates are announced in the SSI monthly newsletter which you received as part of USAWC email distribution. Visit SSI at <http://www.StrategicStudiesInstitute.army.mil/newsletter/> to stay on the list.

If you'd like to stay updated instantly via Facebook, SSI is available at <http://www.facebook.com/SSInow>. A few of the SSI upcoming studies for this summer and fall include: Is the Organizational Culture of the U.S. Army Congruent with the Professional Development of its Senior Level Officer Corps?; The Paradox of Preparing for One War Only to Get Another; and, The U.S. Army War College Guide to National Security Issues.

Peacekeeping and Stability Operations Institute

Want to find out the newest policy papers and articles published by the Peacekeeping and Stability Operations Institute? Then visit <http://pksoi.army.mil/>

Center for Strategic Leadership

To find out the latest events, exercises and publications for Center for Strategic Leadership visit <http://www.csl.army.mil/>

Army Physical Fitness Research Institute

APFRI is a leader development and enhancement program that focuses on the complex interplay of health, fitness, leadership, and readiness and builds on the recognition and understanding that our leaders must confront and master the human dimension of warfare. Importantly, the expansion of the APFRI program leverages the blend of professional expertise, web-based tools, program materials, and lessons-learned from over 25 years of senior leader assessments that APFRI has completed as part of the USAWC. To see the latest APFRI studies and conferences visit <https://apfri.carlisle.army.mil/>

Army Heritage and Education Center
