Application timeline extended for U.S. Army War College Provost (Chief Academic Officer)

September 1, 2016 -- The United States Army War College at Carlisle, PA invites qualified leader-scholars to apply for a full-time, long-term, civilian faculty position as Provost (Chief Academic Officer). The Army War College educates the top echelon of US military officers of all services, U.S. government civilians, and military officers from scores of foreign countries. It develops strategic leaders through rigorous academic programs resulting in the award of an accredited Master's of Strategic Studies degree. The Army War College also administers numerous professional development programs focused on strategic thinking and leadership.

The Provost must be an accomplished leader, teacher, and scholar with the ability and temperament to achieve integrations and synergy among Army War College entities. The selectee must have expertise in a relevant discipline and familiarity with senior-level professional military education. Additionally, the selectee must be able to work collegially with military and civilian educational institutions and operate effectively within federal and military bureaucracies, all while embodying the finest traditions of civilian academia.

The person selected as the Provost would find employment at the Army War College enjoyable, satisfying, and rewarding. The position comes with a compensation package befitting the nature and scope of enterprise leadership, as well as the many benefits of working at an innovative, vibrant, and collegial military educational institution.
