

Carlisle Scholars to debate “China” with Ecole de guerre students: you can participate

By Public Affairs Office 18 April 2021

US Army War College debates "China' influence: threat to world order?" with France's Ecole de guerre, Fri, April 23, 9 a.m, Zoom Event: 813.0181.4816. Passcode:624806

"Resolved: China's influence across the Indo-Pacific is the biggest threat to the international world order."

What's your position on that point, pro or con? Check your knowledge during a war college student debate -- Friday, April 23, 9 a.m.

Three Carlisle Scholars, from the Army War College, will debate three students from France's Ecole de guerre. Each team will take a position, support it in 20 minutes (each), and open the discussion to the audience before the closing remark.

The student challenge is to debate well-informed, well-prepared students, as an experiential means to test breadth and depth of understanding of complex strategic issues.

The heat of the challenge for USMC students came when, Kevin Metz, and Jimmy Watts and students at Ecole de guerre is that the students will learn just prior to the debate which position they'll argue, pro or con.

View, and participate if you wish: Friday, April 23, 9 am online event.
