

Zambian Army General becomes new international hall of fame member

By Robert D. Martin, USAWC PAO 17 March 2023

RELATED LINKS

Lt. Gen. Alibuzwi induction ceremony

Lt. Gen. Alibuzwi's induction into the International Hall of Fame is a demonstration to his distinguished military career, which has spanned over three decades.

On March 1, 2023, Zambia Army Lieutenant General Alibuzwi was inducted into the Army War College International Hall of Fame at Carlisle Barracks. This prestigious recognition is given to military leaders who have made significant contributions to their respective countries.

Lt. Gen. Alibuzwi's induction into the International Hall of Fame is a demonstration to his distinguished military career, which has spanned over three decades. He has held various leadership positions in the Zambia Army, including Chief of Operations and Training, Director of Personnel, and Chief of Staff.

In an interview prior to the ceremony Alibuzwi share some of his insights from his time at the War College.

“The courses offered at the War College draw officers from various backgrounds, have different military doctrine and strategies, along with different customs and traditions,” said Alibuzwi. “This is important because you must respect another as you share your experiences that you have gained throughout your career.”

“Combining these experiences brings about a lot of learning, the exchange of ideas and of course getting to know each other on a personal level. I think this is the greatest experience you can draw from attending the War College,” he said.

Throughout his career, Lt. Gen. Alibuzwi has demonstrated exceptional leadership skills, strategic vision, and a deep commitment to serving his country. He has played a critical role in promoting peace and stability in the region, particularly in the Democratic Republic of Congo and Sudan during peace keeping operations.

During the induction ceremony, Lt. Gen. Alibuzwi expressed his gratitude for the honor and emphasized the importance of continued cooperation between African nations and the United States in promoting peace and stability.

The Army War College International Hall of Fame is a prestigious institution that recognizes outstanding military leaders from around the world. The Hall of Fame was established in 1971 and has inducted over 300 military leaders from 76 countries to date.