

Army Secretary, USAWC students trade thoughts on Army, leadership

Army Secretary, USAWC students trade thoughts on Army, leadership

Secretary of the Army John McHugh sought USAWC student perceptions on their studies, their instructors, and their preparation for future responsibilities.

The two-way exchange included questions from the students. One student asked him how the Army is strategically preparing for the future.

"The most important thing to prepare for the future is happening right here -- create leaders who are comfortable operating in an environment of uncertainty," said McHugh.

