Balfour Beatty Welcomes new Community Manager

Earlier this month, Theresa Steele joined the Carlisle Barracks Balfour Beatty Communities team as the new community manager. Steele, a military spouse, has worked for BBC for several years. Prior to coming to Carlisle she worked as the assistant community manager for Balfour Beatty Communities, at Naval Air Station, Newport, while her husband was stationed at the Naval War College.

“We are here to provide housing for military families,” said Steele. Not to create hardship. I will do everything I can to help. I want to hear from everyone, you are my eyes and ears. My door is always open.”

As a military spouse I understand the mentality of military families and appreciate the stresses of moving frequently, and the desire to have a place to call home,” said Steele.
