

Post, Carlisle fire fighters respond to Root Hall office fire

Post, Carlisle fire fighters respond to Root Hall office fire

Carlisle Barracks and Carlisle Borough Fire Fighters responded quickly to a report of smoke in a Root Hall office Oct. 5 and their quick actions prevented the spread of the fire.

The fire was in a single faculty office in the Root Hall academic building and was believed to have been caused by an electrical issue. No one was in the office at the time and the Carlisle Barracks fire fighters are investigating to confirm the nature of the electrical problem.

"The professional, quick assistance by off-post fire fighters is just another example of the importance of our mutual aide agreements with local fire responders," said Col. David Funk, Army War College Deputy Commandant.

Army War College classes and activities will continue as scheduled. Clean-up efforts will continue this week.