

Installation awards ceremony names top Civilian, Soldier and NCO

Robert D. Martin, USAWC Public Affairs Office

Installation awards ceremony names top Civilian, Soldier and NCO

Dunham Commander receives highest medical award

May 11, 2015 -- Dana Hare is a 'stand-out' as the Carlisle Barracks Civilian Employee of the Year, anchoring an elite group of civilian and military employees who have been singled out for achievements and contributions to the Army War College, Garrison and Dunham Army Health Clinic missions at the Installation Awards Ceremony at the Letort View Community Center.

"From the time you hit the gate until you leave it, the people -- you all -- who work and live here create an atmosphere that everyone in the Army wants to achieve, and you do it every day," said USAWC Command Sgt. Major Malcolm Parrish, about the appreciation that is regularly expressed by students, International Fellows, residents, and the larger community of retirees, Reservists and Guardsmen who come here for services. "Be proud of yourself because what you do every day affects people every day."

Hare, a simulations specialist who works in the USAWC Center for Strategic Leadership and Development, was honored alongside many outstanding members of the community:

Dana C. Hare receives the Commander's Award for Civilian Service Medal from Maj. Gen. William E. Rapp, Commandant USAWC, during the Carlisle Barracks installation quarterly award ceremony, Letort View Community Center, May 11.

Staff Sgt. Maryjane S. Atienza is the noncommissioned officer in charge of Physical Exams at Dunham Army Health Clinic, and now she is NCO of the Quarter, setting an example for fellow Soldiers.

Staff Sgt. Maryjane S. Atienza, is presented her certificate from Maj. Gen. William E. Rapp, Commandant USAWC, and Malcolm

D. Parrish
USAWC
Command
Sgt. Maj.

Private 1st Class Dennis J. Swanson is presented with the Army Achievement Medal from Gen. William E. Rapp, Commandant USAWC, and Lt. Col. Kimberly A. Peeples, Garrison Commander
Private 1st Class Dennis J. Swanson is a Dunham

Clinic Radiology Specialist, selected as the installation Soldier of the Quarter, to recognize his hard work, determination and dedication to exceed standards.

Dale Clements, applications and web developer at the USAWC Center for Strategic Leadership and Development, was honored as Civilian of the Quarter, and received the Achievement Medal for Civilian Service.

Dale Clements, receives the Achievement Medal for Civilian Service from Maj. Gen. William E. Rapp, Commandant USAWC, and Malcolm D. Parrish USAWC Command Sgt. Maj.

Bif Coyle is the program manager and chief of Army Housing Services at Carlisle Barracks. She received the Superior Civilian Service Award for her performance and dedication to timely projects that represent major improvement for Soldier and Family housing services here.

The Superior Civilian Service Award was presented to Ms. Bif Coyle, by Maj. Gen. William E. Rapp, Commandant USAWC, and Malcolm D. Parrish USAWC Command Sgt. Maj.

Geletha Darter is now a member of the USAWC Strategic Studies Institute, but her work in her previous position in the Garrison Public Works Directorate resulted in a successful inspection by the Army National Military Cemeteries organization of records and program guidance and that, in turn, resulted in the award of the Achievement Medal for Civilian Service.

Wayne A. Yaw, is the Security Supervisor for the Garrison's Directorate of Emergency Services. His work to strengthen the DES Security Guard Force training program earned the Achievement Medal for Civilian Service.

Col. Rebecca Porter, Dunham Army Health Clinic Commander, was honored for having earned "A" proficiency -- the highest award that the Army Medical Department gives for professional expertise, exceptional ability, and outstanding achievements in both clinical and academic medicine.

Col. Rebecca Port, Commander DAHC, receives the DA "A" proficiency Certificate from Maj. Gen. William E. Rapp, Commandant USAWC, and D. Parrish USAWC Command Sgt. Maj.

The following employees recieved the Combined Federal Campaign Leadership Awards for the 2014 campaign: Bernard Griffard, Thomas Kelly, Christopher Lackovic, COL Rebecca Porter, Dawn Tracy, and Daniel French.

Commandant Certificates were presented to those whose work was essential to the success of the 2015 Jim Thorpe Sports Days: Don Watkins, Ann Miller, James Price, Pete Carbaugh, Nate Wright, Eric Evans, Al Flick, Regina Franke, Angelina Davis, Bruce Nielson, Alec Fox, Richard Russell, Terry Myers, Michael Freundel, April Spinks, Scot Richardson, Jacqueline Schultz, and Amy Magnuson.