

Blasts in Marshall Ridge to make way for homes

Kelly Schloesser, Army War College Public Affairs Office

Blasts in Marshall Ridge to make way for homes

April 3, 2009 -- Construction workers will blast through rock in order to complete the utility instillation for phase two of the Marshall Ridge housing area. There will be a total of nine small blasts, taking place over 3 weeks in April. Blasts are limited to one per day.

Blasting through the rock will allow the construction team to place all the utilities underground, making them less likely to be hindered by bad weather.

The blasts will not disrupt residents on Carlisle Barracks. Those in the immediate area, Marshall Ridge and Quarters One, may hear a muffled sound during the blast execution.

Marshall Ridge Phase II, will provide 22 single family and 12 duplex homes for permanent party families. Phase II is expected to be completed in the fall of 2009.

Blast Dates:

- April 7
- April 9
- April 13
- April 15
- April 17
- April 21
- April 23
- April 27
- April 29