

Assessing Risk in the 21st Century

Assessing Risk in the 21st Century

Challenges and Opportunities for Defense Planning and Policy

Thursday, June 1, 2017 10:00 am - 11:30 am

CSIS Headquarters

This event will be webcast live from this page. <https://www.csis.org/events/assessing-risk-21st-century>

With the U.S. defense strategy review underway, leaders in the Department of Defense must address a complex question: how should the Pentagon adapt its framework for assessing risk to reflect a security environment defined by persistent, disruptive change?

In partnership with the U.S. Army War College, the CSIS International Security Program will host a conversation on strategic and military risk, providing a range of perspectives to examine challenges, opportunities, and recommendations for assessing risk in the contemporary security environment. The discussion will also feature findings from a U.S. Army War College study on assessing corporate-level risk in the Department of Defense enterprise.

Featuring

Mark F. Cancian

Senior Adviser, International Security Program, Center for Strategic and International Studies

Mackenzie Eaglen

Resident Fellow, Marilyn Ware Center for Security Studies, American Enterprise Institute

Nathan Freier

Associate Professor of National Security Studies, Strategic Studies Institute, U.S. Army War College

Thomas Mahnken

President and CEO, Center for Strategic and Budgetary Assessments

Christine Wormuth

Senior Adviser, International Security Program, Center for Strategic and International Studies

Melissa G. Dalton \(Moderator\)

Senior Fellow and Deputy Director, International Security Program, Center for Strategic and International Studies

U.S. Army War College Archives - News Article - 31 May 2017