

Students and faculty of the USAWC Distance Class of 2020 honored for strategic writing, teaching excellence

By Elena Patton, Public Affairs Office 24 July 2020

USAWC CLASS OF 2020 STUDENT AWARDEES

COL Robert Carter, III COL Joseph W. Green LTC Jonathan A. Ishikawa

Mr. Edward F. Linczer LTC James A. Nuce LTC Michael W. Wissemann

USAWC honored six Distance Ed students for exceptional writing and research skills at the Distance Class of 2020 graduation ceremony, July 24.

USAWC CLASS OF 2020 FACULTY AWARDEES

COL Jerad Harper Prof. Robert Hume Dr. Joel Hillison

Top Distance Education faculty, Jerad Harper, Robert Hume and Joel Hillison, were honored with the USAWC 2020 Excellence in Teaching Award, July 24.

The Army War College Distance Class of 2020 was highlighted by honors for six Distance Education students and three top faculty for their achievements in research and teaching.

The students demonstrated exceptional skills in the areas of writing and research about the significance of national security. They received awards sponsored by the U.S. Army War College foundation.

Army Col. Robert Carter III, for “Artificial Intelligence Applications in Multi-Domain Operations”

Army Col. Joseph W. Green, “Double Disinformation: Coordination between Russian and ISIS Propaganda”

Army Lt. Col. Jonathan A. Ishikawa, “Increasing Deterrence with the U.S. Indo-Pacific Command Joint Exercise Program”

Mr. Edward F. Linczer, “Turning Plowshares into Swords: Countering the Chinese Communist Party’s Military-Civil Fusion Strategy”

Army Lt. Col. James Andrew Nuce, “Improving Tomorrow’s Joint Force”

Army Lt. Col. Michael W. Wissemann, “Global Health Engagement to Advance U.S. Strategic Objectives.”

Three faculty members were honored with the Army War College Excellence in Teaching Award for their distinguished work with the graduating class of 2020:

Col. Jared Harper

Prof. Robert Hume

Dr Joel Hillison.